THAW WAS GIVEN GREAT OVATION

By Town Folks of Coaticook, Quebec.

HARRY APPEARS AT A WINDOW

And Addresses Enthusiastic Crowd—Has Won Sympathy of Canadians.

DEMONSTRATION LASTED HOUR

Coaticook, Quebec, Sept. 6.—While the town band played "God Save the King," a great throng of people surged about Harry K. Thaw's quarters in the immigration detention station here to-night and in two languages shouted their admiration for the millionaire murderer of Stanford White.

Plans for a celebration of Thaw's eleventh hour escape from the clutches of William Travers Jerome had been under way all day, and when darkness fell there was already a group in front of Thaw's quarters. This was constantly augmented and when the band came marching briskly up with the music so dear to the hearts of the French Canadians, resounding on the clear night air, the pent-up enthusiasm of Thaw's well-wishers broke loose. They cheered him again and again and finally the crowd became so enthusiastic that the prisoner appeared at his window and delivered a brief speech of thanks.

"I am glad that you are glad that fair-play has finally won my fight," he said. "Jerome is at last unveiled to the people of Canada in his true light. He now knows that he has been beaten and he may as well go home."

"We'll put Jerome in jail unless he runs away," howled the crowd. "If you give the word we'll tear away your bars and put Jerome in your place."

"A diable avec Jerome!" shouted one burly French Canadian. "A diable avec Jerome le loup" (to the devil with Jerome the wolf).

"Mes remerciements au gens du Canada." (My very best thanks to the people of Canada) replied Thaw.

The demonstration lasted over an hour and the crowd stayed until the lights in Thaw's quarters went out. Then the band marched merrily away with the crowd following still cheering.

While the crowd was around the detention station a squad of Dominion police sent from Montreal for the purpose, kept a close watch to nip in the bud any attempt to liberate Thaw. The authorities have no doubt if the populace should find a leader it would try to set the prisoner free. For that reason he will be closely guarded day and night until the time for his departure for Montreal.

Jerome, who has been outwitted for the present in his effort to secure Thaw's immediate return to Matteawan, enjoyed a diatary domicile to-day. He secured through Thursday of his hearing on the charge of being a common gambler in that he participated with newspaper friends in a game of poker, counsel an adjournment until Thursday afternoon. Until 4 o'clock this afternoon Jerome remained at the Hotel Carpenter, a fine house at Norton's Mills, Vt. The bar of the hotel is in Canada and the tobacco stand in Vermont. Thaw's prosecutor spent most of his time in Vermont.

He had been advised that the temper of the people of Coaticook was such that his life would be in danger if he returned there.

"I would like nothing better than to return to Coaticook immediately and face every one of those who think I a mither enemy," said Jerome. "If I were merely a private citizen, I would do so, but I am a representative of the Empire State, and so I shall not return until Thursday, when I hope that the better sense of the intelligent people will prevail."

At 4 o'clock, Hector Verrett, Jerome's counsel, motored down to Norton's Mills and told his client that a search of the Canadian statutes had failed to reveal that the gambling offense charged is a crime, and that therefore the warrant against him would be quashed. Jerome then motored to Island Pond, Vt., with Franklin Kennedy, Deputy Attorney General of New York, and Capt. John Lanyon, his personal bodyguard. There he took a train for Montreal over the Canadian Pacific route, not passing through the judicial district of St. Francis, in which Coaticook is located.

At Montreal Jerome will engage lawyers and continue the fight for Thaw's early deportation. He still believes that he will have Thaw over the border within a fortnight and will devise ways and means to combat the latest move of the Thaw lawyers in securing a writ of habeas corpus returnable September 15.

THESE NIGHT RIDERS THREATENED A PASTOR

Owensboro, Ky., Sept. 7.—Night riders threatened to "blow up" the Rev. Dr. Lewis Powell, pastor of the fashionable Settle Memorial Methodist Church here, while he was assisting fellow pastors in conducting a series of camp meetings in Western Kentucky. Dr. Powell, who returned last night, told his parishioners of the incident to-day.

At a camp meeting near Marion, he said, the customary notice announcing religious services was posted conspicuously about the big tent. The placards announced that no admission would be charged but that silver offerings would be taken to help defray the expenses of the meeting.

One morning it was discovered that all the announcement cards had been torn down. In their places were found cards written by hand which read: "If you sky-pilots don't quit charging admission to these here meetings we will blow you up some night, tents and all. (Signed.) Night Riders." The authorities are investigating.

BELL COUNTY PAYROLL IS $200,000 MONTHLY

Pineville, Ky., Sept. 7.—The coal shipments from the Bell-Harlan coal fields for the month of August were the largest in the history of the district. Since the Washto & Black Mountain railroad has rendered the coal fields of Harlan accessible, new operations are constantly being started until soon the whole section will be in a state of development.

In addition to the local men who have large interests here, there are many Eastern men who have invested capital and expect large returns. The mine payroll in Bell county alone is $200,000 a month, and it is predicted that within five years it will be doubled. This has produced a steady rise in property values and the whole section is in a state of prosperous growth.

Judge Walter P. Lincoln, of Louisville, in company with other business men, has been here for several days looking over timber properties.

GRIM REAPER BEATS CENTURY BY ONE YEAR

Henderson, Ky., Sept. 4.—"Uncle Jackie" Quinn, trying to live to be 100 years old, died at Corydon this afternoon at the age of 99. He leaves 124 descendants, including children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren.

"Uncle Jackie" was a remarkable man, vigorous and mentally sound till the last, recalling politics and politicians of long ago. He voted for Van Buren and had voted for every Democrat for President until Wilson. He came to Henderson when it was known as Red Banks.

FARMERS' UNION WILL HAVE NATIONAL ORGAN

Salina, Kan., Sept. 6.—A national official paper will be established by the National Farmers' Union. This was decided at the annual convention of the organization. It was stated that the purpose of the publication would be to advance the interests of organized farmers by disseminating information regarding the progress of legislation in which the people of the rural districts are concerned. Among other things the votes of members of Congress on legislation affecting the farmers will be published.

MANY DELEGATES ATTEND MEETING

Of Tobacco Growers In Henderson.

A NEW SOCIETY ORGANIZED

Th: "Consolidated Growers Association"—Good Movement.

MEET IN OWENSBORO FRIDAY

Henderson, Ky., Sept. 6.—Representatives from eight counties in what is known as the English type tobacco belt, five counties in the Stemming District and Daviess, Ohio and McLean, met in called convention at the court house here to-day, for the purpose of forming a giant consolidation of the tobacco growing interests throughout the Western Kentucky belt. There were about 400 delegates from the eight counties, completely filling the auditorium of the court room. Every one came with a determination of accomplishing the end for which the meeting was called.

Two important resolutions were proposed and unanimously adopted by the delegates, the first of which was that all officers of the now existing tobacco organizations not in sympathy with the movement resign their positions with these organizations, so as to give the membership an opportunity to align themselves with the larger organization.

The second provides that pooling pledges be at once prepared by an organization committee, composed of one member from each of the counties in the English type belt, and the pledges be circulated and an organization of the eight counties into one compact body be perfected. The organization committee will meet at Owensboro on Friday, Sept. 12, at 1 o'clock, to take up the matter of fixing a time for arranging for the circulation of the pooling pledges, and the further perfecting of the organization.

The organization committee as selected at the meeting are Ohio county, L. B. Tichenor, Hartford; McLean county, G. H. Cary, Calhoun; Daviess, G. H. Ruby, Utica; Hopkins, Bradley Wilson, Madisonville; Webster, C. P. Dunville, Slaughter; Union, C. D. Oglesby, Boxville; Crittenden, W. B. Rankin, Ford's Ferry; and Henderson, Dr. J. U. Ridley, Robards.

The Stemming District board held a meeting at its offices to-day, at which a resolution was passed agreeing to affiliate the Stemming District Association with the new organization.

The name of the organization is to be the Consolidated Tobacco Growers' Association.

DEATH OF MRS. HELEN DAVIS NEAR CALHOUN

Mrs. Helen Davis, widow of the late A. A. Davis, died of cancer of the bowels at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Yewell, near Calhoun. She had been in ill health for several years, the nature of her illness being rheumatism and paralysis. The illness which caused her death was one of more recent origin. She was about 70 years old. Before her marriage she was Miss Helen May, daughter of Wm. May, deceased, one of the pioneer citizens of Daviess county, and who settled on the Hartford road, about three miles north of Pleasant Ridge. She was a member of the Methodist church and was a Christian woman who had a wide circle of friends in Daviess and McLean counties. She resided in Owensboro for many years. She is survived by one son, J. P. Davis, one daughter, Mrs. Robt. Yewell, of Calhoun. She is survived by two brothers, Orlando and Almarion May, of Owensboro, and two sisters, Mrs. J. W. Russell, of Owensboro, and Mrs. Thos. May, of Pleasant Ridge.

The remains were taken to Owensboro for interment in Elmwood cemetery.

Secretary Pester's annual report on the 1912-13 cotton crop puts the production at 14,167,115 bales, a decrease under that of 1911-12.

NO CHANGE IN NEGOTIATIONS

With Mexico—Statement From Embassy.

WASHINGTON IS ENCOURAGED

No Absolute Assurances That Huerta Will be "Out of Running."

MEXICAN OFFICER IS KILLED

Washington, Sept. 8.—While no announcements were made at any of the Government departments to-day of any change in the diplomatic side of the Mexican controversy, two phases of the situation attracted much attention among officials.

One was the published disclaimer on the part of Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American Charge d'Affaires at Mexico City, that any positive assurances had been given him of the intentions of Victoriano Huerta not to be a candidate in the approaching elections. The other was the receipt of private telegrams from sources close to the administration in Mexico City stating that Gen. Geronimo Trevino would be made Minister of War soon to succeed Gen. Blanquet. It had been generally supposed here that Trevino was ordered back to Mexico City by Huerta to be given the reins of the government as provisional President, while Huerta entered the presidential campaign.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy's statement was not surprising here, as it had been pointed out from time to time by Washington officials that they had relied only on the repeated emphasis by Frederico Gamboa, Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs, of the statement that Huerta was ineligible by the Constitution to succeed himself. Mr. O'Shaughnessy incidentally disclosed the fact that the Mexican officials had supplemented the argument of the second Gamboa note calling attention to Huerta's ineligibility by verbal references to that part of the note.

This further encourages Washington officials to believe that the Huerta candidacy will not materialize. They realize that Huerta could circumvent constitutional obstacles by resigning in advance of the elections, but such an act, it has been openly stated by high Administration officials, would be regarded as a breach of faith and a subterfuge, and they are still proceeding on the assumption that Huerta has been eliminated.

The story that Trevino would be appointed to the Cabinet and Gen. Blanquet, the present Minister of War, sent to the front, is in line with various reports that have reached here of the alleged infidelity of some of Huerta's military chiefs. When Huerta recently issued an order redistributing his Generals to various frontier points of Mexico, the move was interpreted as being of military character only, but since Washington officials have been led to believe that Senor Huerta fears the instigation of plots and intrigues among his Generals and is moving them about to prevent any concerted action against him, Gen. Blanquet was the right-hand man of Huerta in the days just preceding the overthrow of Madero.

The War Department received a report of the killing of Lieut. Acosta, a Mexican federal officer, by American immigration agents at El Paso, Texas. The report confirmed press dispatches of the incident, stating that Acosta was killed after he had crossed the American territory and fired on the Americans. The affair is in the hands of the civil authorities at El Paso, though the immigration department here will make careful inquiry into the occurrence.

CARLISLE AND VICINITY IN GRIP OF THE DROUGHT

Carlisle, Ky., Sept. 5.—With the Carlisle Milling Company and some other large concerns of this city shipping water from the Licking river by rail to run their plants; with people carrying and hauling drinking water for miles and in some instances buying and paying for it; with stock water completely out on many farms; with crops literally burned up, no grass and no corn of consequence; with cisterns dry and many wells, springs and pools exhausted, never known to fail before, the water problem is distressing the people here. The Carlisle Electric and Power Company will at once begin the work of sinking several wells at great depth in an effort to find a good water supply. An ice plant and a water works system are among the certainties for Carlisle by next year.

JUDGEMENT WAS GIVEN TO A HANDSOME MAN

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 3.—When the first woman jury in Joliet was impaneled here this afternoon in the court of Justice James McCulloch, the fair jurors returned a judgment of $20 in favor of George Martin against John Vargo.

Martin is young, handsome and a bachelor; Vargo, is old, not so handsome and is married.

All the feminine jurors were unmarried except one, who held out for Vargo until the rest threatened to tell her husband.

During the trial a recess was called to allow the jurors to refresh themselves with ice cream sodas at a near-by drugstore. When the verdict had been returned young Martin invited the entire party to a candy shop, where he presented each juror with a box. The Constable who secured the jurors is a young man of wide acquaintance, and he brought only pretty girls to the courtroom. None was over 23.

Vargo declared after the trial that he would protest the decision.

DR. ELLIS IS HONORED BY STATE ASSOCIATION

Dr. J. W. Ellis, of Masonville, was elected on Thursday to the presidency of the Kentucky State Medical Association, at its annual meeting in Bowling Green.

Other officers elected were first vice president, J. L. Neal, Warren county; third vice president, M. McBowen, Cynthiana; secretary for five years, A. T. McCormack, Bowling Green; treasurer for five years, W. B. McClure, of Lexington. Delegates to the A. M. A., W. W. Richmond, Clinton and A. H. Barkley, Lexington. Councillors, Dunning S. Wilson, Fifth district; Ernest Rau, Third district; J. E. Wells, Cynthiana, Eighth district.

Dr. Ellis, who has been accorded one of the highest honors bestowed upon a physician by his colleagues in his election to the presidency of the representative body of the State, is one of the most prominent physicians of Owensboro and Daviess county. He has several times enjoyed similar honors by his brother physicians in the county medical association. Dr. Ellis is a native of Daviess county, and is known and loved by all his neighbors. He is a brother of the Hon. W. T. Ellis, of Owensboro.

Newport was selected as the next meeting place for the State Medical Association, which will take place during next year.

WHEEL HORSES OF DEMOCRACY

In Kentucky Named by Chairman Vansant.

HEADQUARTERS AT ASHLAND

McCreary County Officers Thrown Out by Acting Sub-Committee

PLAN FOR THE FALL CAMPAIGN

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 6.—The Democratic Campaign Committee, appointed by Rufus Vansant, of Ashland, Chairman of the Democratic State Central and State Executive Committees, to conduct the Democratic State campaign this fall, comprises June Gayle, of Owenton; W. D. White, of Mt. Sterling; J. K. Wells, of Paintsville, and J. W. Boston, of Calhoun. Chairman Vansant will be a member of the committee.

This committee was appointed pursuant to a resolution adopted by the State Central and State Executive Committees. It was decided to continue the headquarters of the State Central and State Executive Committees at Ashland, and it is probable that the campaign will be conducted from that city. The Campaign Committee will appoint County Campaign Chairman, and will outline a plan for the fall campaign.

After hearing evidence and arguments in the McCreary County contest, a subcommittee, comprising W. D. White, J. K. Wells and Charlton Thompson, reported that neither the election of Harry Jones or P. M. Stevens, as Chairman of the McCreary County Democratic Committee, could be recognized as regular. This report was adopted, and State Executive Committeeman E. D. Dishman was directed to go to Pine Knot Saturday, September 13, to pass upon the contests and preside at the election of a Chairman of the County Committee. Former Judge Harry Jones was represented before the Committee by Attorneys R. L. Pope and D. E. McQuerry, and P. W. Stevens appeared in his own behalf.

Taking advantage of the occasion to meet the committeemen from over the State, there were present a host of candidates for various offices, with petitions for signatures.

Chairman Vansant and former Governor Beckham, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Senator, dined together. Governor McCreary was on the ground pushing his candidacy for the senatorial nomination.

Chairman Vansant said he had never told any one he would not be a candidate for Governor, but declined to say that he would make the race. Attorney-General Garnett and his friends were active in furthering his candidacy for the nomination for Governor.

Gates Young, of Owensboro, received many pledges of support for the caucus nomination for Sergeant-at-Arms of the next Senate. Eli Berry was here to accept the position of Secretary of the Democratic permanent headquarters, had such a resolution been passed.

John L. Smith, of the Fulton News, was pushing the candidacy of his son Alvin, now in the Philippine Islands for Director of Public Works of the Philippine Islands, and received the indorsement of every member of the administration and all the committeemen.

Stanley Reed, of Maysville, and Elwood Hamilton, of this city, were hobnobbing all day with their backers in their races for Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Potato Crop Reported Short.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Epicures whose ideal of a repast includes big baked potatoes, French fried or any other variety, have suffered a serious shock, a leading crop expert here announcing that the potato crop this year in the United States will be 100,000,000 bushels short of last year.

Prices for Minnesota and Ohio potatoes in the Chicago market advanced to-day eight to ten cents a bushel.

Warrants outstanding against the State treasury August 31 were $2,200,736. At the same time the balance in the treasury was $524,274.60.

UNCLE SAM RUNS SMALL COAL MINE

Government Making Good
Beginning To

CARRY OUT IRRIGATION PLAN

Vast Field Is Now Awaiting Development Which Is Sure To Come.

COAL ENOUGH FOR 1,000 YEARS

Williston, N. D., Sept. 5.—While we are eagerly looking forward to the Government development of Alaska's vast coal deposits, it's mighty interesting as well as surprising to take a look at the coal beds in our own Northwest which Uncle Sam has already started to develop.

This Government owned and operated a coal mine at Williston that is an eye opener. It reveals amazing possibilities for cheap fuel and power and unexpected wealth for a great section that has yet thought little of mining and manufacture.

Uncle Sam is pecking at a nine-foot vein of lignite coal, and using it to run his irrigation project, incidentally selling surplus power to the city of Williston.

This particular mining property of Uncle Sam's is 1,000 acres in extent. The worked vein is the middle one of three veins, each from eight to ten feet thick, all easily workable. And in this 1,000 acres Uncle Sam figures that he has enough coal to supply all possible needs of his irrigation project for 1,000 years!

That's only the beginning of big figures. For Western North Dakota has 32,000 square miles of this same lignite coal. That's over 20,000,000 acres. Just compare that with the measly little patch that Uncle Sam says will supply him for 1,000 years.

And over the line, in Montana, there are 34,000 square miles more of the same deposits.

Prof. E. J. Babcock, dean of the North Dakota College of Mining Engineering, estimates that his State can produce 500,000,000,000 (five hundred billion) tons of lignite, which, at $2 a ton, would be worth $1,000,000,000,000 (a thousand billion dollars). And Montana could do as well.

Most of the coal is private ownership, but the Government still retains large holdings.

This vast wealth has hardly been touched. The section is sparsely settled with cattle and sheep ranches and dry farmers. And the peculiar quality of the coal has made it difficult to handle.

Lignite is a brownish-black coal, lighter in weight than bituminous, with less fuel value. When mined it has, roughly, one-third water, one-third gas, not counting its 8 or 10 per cent. of ashes. The water quickly evaporates, then the coal crumbles to slacks. So it has been mined only for local consumption. The gas is usually lost in burning.

The problem here is, to get the total fuel value from the coal, and to make it available for shipment any distance.

Uncle Sam does the former very well. In his power plant boiler room he burns all of the gas (which others lose) by a scientific air-blast process. He produces power cheaply, as he uses his plant to fuller capacity.

Uncle Sam doesn't ship coal. But he transmits power. As a side issue, the plant is now furnishing 35,000 kilowatt hours of electricity a month to this city, at 4½ cents per k. w. h. The city, retailing it at its old prices, is making a profit, and rates will go much lower.

Here's a striking example of the way city and Nation may co-operate to develop agriculture and industry. Uncle Sam might supply power to many communities.

But how shall these vast coal deposits be made available for distant fuel users?

Prof. Babcock has shown the way. He takes a ton of lignite and separates the gas from the coal, getting 11,000 cubic feet of excellent gas and half a ton of "briquets."

These briquets have almost the fuel value of anthracite coal, and are easier to ship and use.

The process increases the value of the raw coal and makes it cheaply marketable in a great region that imports most of its fuel. And yet not one private operator has seized the opportunity.

Many residents are hoping that Uncle Sam will do some more developing right here in the Northwest.

SPORT.

Sport is divided into many kinds. Among others may be mentioned baseball, football, poker and matrimony. Sport is founded on a struggle of some sort. That is the reason why kissing is not a sport, because it is almost always a sure thing. Buying and selling in Wall Street is not a sport for the same reason.

Sport supports a great many different institutions. Among others may be mentioned excursion trains, race tracks, gambling halls and colleges.

There are two kinds of sports, namely, indoor and outdoor. Outdoor sports include church picnics, automobile races, aeroplaning and summer love-making. Indoor sports include roulette, bridge, turkey trotting and housecleaning. A man who stays home and helps his wife clean house is not only a sport, but a martyr and hero combined.

Sport was invented to divert the mind—when there were minds. Now it is used to kill time and produce late receipts.—[Life]

Diarrhoea Quickly Cured.

"I was taken with diarrhoea and Mr. Yorks, the merchant here, persuaded me to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. After taking one dose I was cured. It also cured others that I gave it to," writes M. E. Gebhart, Oriole, Pa. That is not at all unusual. LONG SLEEP OF SWEDISH WOMAN

Which Lasted Period Of Thirty-Two Years.

FINALLY AWOKE FROM "DOZE"

To Full Consciousness And
Has Regained Possession Of Her Faculties.

HER CASE PUZZLES DOCTORS

There are many cases on record of people remaining in a sleep-like trance for several years, these trances being often caused from injuries to the head, but no one has had so long a sleep as a woman named Caroline Allison, who lives in the little island of Okuo, off the coast of Sweden.

The sleeper of Okuo was born in 1861; she was a perfectly normal child, and for the first 14 years of her life she was strong and healthy. She did not go to work till just before her fourteenth birthday. One day she came home complaining of toothache and went to bed. Soon afterward she fell into a deep trance, which lasted from 1875 until 1907, a period of 32 years.

While in this state she did not seem to see or hear, nor did she show any trace of feeling, for though her arms were pricked with pins, needles and other sharp instruments, she was not once observed to wince. Only once or twice did she seem to wake from her lethargy. On one occasion, in response to a cry from her mother, she moved her lips as if to try to speak. When her mother died Caroline must have been conscious of the fact, for she burst into tears, though there was no other change in her condition. Two years later, when her brother was drowned, she also had a fit of weeping. For 20 years and more her only nourishment consisted of two cupsful of milk a day.

After the death of her mother she was left in the care of a housekeeper, and then gradual signs of awakening intelligence began to dawn. Once she was left alone for several hours with food near her, and the food was seen to have gradually disappeared. There was no doubt that her trance had been broken. A few months later she regained consciousness, asking for her mother. She did not recognize her brothers at all, for she only remembered them as tiny boys. Gradually she regained possession of her faculties, until at the age of 46 she had completely recovered from her trance, being in perfect health and well and hearty in every way.

She only remembers her early life, but nothing that happened during her long illness. Her case has completely mystified the doctors, who cannot explain it in any way.—[Philadelphia Ledger.]

BOY PUBLICLY FLOGGED
BY ORDER OF THE COURT

Paris, Ky., Sept. 3.—"Public whippings instead of jail sentences will be my policy in the future when dealing with incorrigible boys brought into court," said Police Judge E. B. January to-day when he ordered Dennis Leer, a young negro boy, flogged with a cowhide. Leer, who is a son of Ben Leer, a highly respected negro of Paris, had for several months been the source of considerable complaint from white boys who charged that he had attacked them with missiles.

When arraigned the boy pleaded guilty to the charge and Judge January ordered the boy's father to pay the lash, which he did with telling effect upon the back of the boy, which had been bared for the occasion. When twenty lashes had been administered the boy almost fainted from pain and fright, and his body bore the unmistakable evidence of the severe thrashing. According to Judge January, the reform school and jail are no places for boys who are inclined to stray from the right path, and to save expense to the city and State, he will have all youths brought into his court upon minor charges either whipped publicly by their parents or an officer of the court.

HUERTA MUST BE ELIMINATED

Washington, Sept. 5.—President Wilson's untiring effort to bring about peaceful conditions in rebellion-ridden Mexico at last appear to be a success.

Administration officials late tonight declared that both Nelson O'Shaughnessy, Charge d'Affaires of the American Embassy at Mexico City, and John Lind, President Wilson's personal envoy at Vera Cruz, were in frequent communication with officials of the Huerta Government concerning a new basis for negotiations through which it was hoped to bring about peace.

A message from Mr. O'Shaughnessy reached President Wilson today and while its contents were not disclosed it was said to be indicative of important developments in the next few days.

The new basis for the parleys, most of which are being carried on orally, contemplates certain questions as having been definitely disposed of.

The Washington Government considers that it has made quite clear that it cannot under any circumstances recognize the Huerta Government, and does not expect any further demands along that line.

The Administration, moreover, though hoping for a positive assurance that Huerta will not be a candidate in the approaching elections, is inclined to accept at its face value the assertion of Frederico Gamboa, Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs, in his two notes to Mr. Lind, that Huerta is ineligible for reelection as meaning his elimination from the Presidential race.

Washington officials look upon this point as the most important of their proposals and think an amicable understanding on it soon will be reached.

With these fundamentals settled, it is understood that further negotiations by Messrs. O'Shaughnessy and Lind would look to the establishment of an effective armistice and the holding of a fair and free election.

By some diplomats, and among the Constitutionallists here, the view is held that the constitutional prohibition against Huerta's candidacy would easily be evaded by his resignation in favor of another Provisional President some time before the election.

Administration officials, who realize that such a contingency is possible, believe, nevertheless, that Senor Gamboa was acting in good faith in his declaration that the candidacy of Huerta had not been raised as an issue in Mexico before the United States brought it into the discussion, that everybody there also had taken into consideration his ineligibility for the Presidency and had not launched any campaign for him.

Outside of Administration quarters, however, much significance is attached to the pronouncement in concert of various official and semi-official newspapers in Mexico City a few days ago that Huerta would now be compelled to be a candidate because he had successfully defied the United States in the Lind negotiations.

High officials of the Administration stated most emphatically that while they felt satisfied now of Huerta's elimination from the Presidential race, his subsequent election would not alter the attitude of the United States, namely—that recognition could not be extended to him. Their action would be based on the precedent of President Hayes in 1877, who refused to recognize Porfirio Diaz for a long time after he was elected on the ground that the United States had a right to observe whether the Government set up was approved by the Mexican people, and would guarantee stability and international obligations.

Unofficial reports incidentally continue to reach Washington that the Huerta Government cannot last much longer on account of its financial difficulties.

Meanwhile Mr. Lind will remain in Vera Cruz pending orders from Washington.

President Wilson, immediately on his return from the summer capital at Cornish, N. H., to-day delved into the subject again.

DEATH MET HIM WHILE AT MORNING PRAYER

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 4.—L. J. Fallon, who for the last ten years has been manager for the Fallon Coal Company, and was a well known business man of this city, was found dead, kneeling by his bedside in the attitude of prayer when a member of his family went to awake him for breakfast this morning. It is supposed that Mr. Fallon, who was a devout Catholic, had risen to pray as usual his early morning devotions and that death came suddenly before his prayer was ended. Mr. Fallon was 53 years old and was born and reared in Cincinnati, where his aged mother and other relatives still live. He left there about thirty-five years ago and has lived in this city practically ever since. He has been for ten years manager of the Fallon Coal Company, which operated two large coal yards in this city and was an active member of St. Paul's Catholic church.

He is survived by eight children, his aged mother and several sisters and brothers. His wife died last May.

BETTING AT SEA IS A POPULAR AMUSEMENT

People at sea bet on all sorts of contingencies. An emigrant ship from England was recently approaching the Australian coast, and an interesting event was expected at any moment in the married people's quarters. Considerable speculation and excitement was developed over the question whether the happy event would take place within or without the three-mile limit. A great cheer went up when it was officially announced that the little stranger was legally an Australian, and had earned the $5 baby bonus of the commonwealth. A minute or two earlier and the child would have been a native of Stepney, London, to which parish children born at sea belong.—[London Chronicle.]

Mother of Eighteen Children.

"I am the mother of eighteen children and have the praise of doing more work than any young woman in my town," writes Mrs. C. J. Martin, Boone Mill, Va. "I suffered for five years with stomach trouble and could not eat as much as a biscuit without suffering. I have taken three bottles of Chamberlain's Tablets and am now a well woman and weigh 168 pounds. I can eat anything I want to, and as much as I want and feel better than I have at any time in ten years." I refer to any one in Boone Mill or vicinity and they will vouch for what I say." Chamberlain's Tablets are for sale by all dealers. m.

Fast Negro Sprinter.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 5.—Howard P. Drew, the Springfield, Mass., High School sprinter recently equalled the world's record in the 100-yard dash on Charter Oak track at the Connecticut Fair, going the distance in 9.3-5 seconds. Five stop watches caught the time as 9.3-5 seconds, and this time was officially announced, but it was given out later that two stop watches had caught 9.2-5 seconds.

A few minutes later Drew ran the 20 yards in 2.2 seconds flat.

HIGH BEEF—HOW IT IS MADE SO

Ranchman Got $19; Consumer Paid $99.

JUST WHAT COMES IN BETWEEN

Posted Writer Throws Some Light On Very Important Matter.

WHERE HIGH PRICES COME IN

Who gets the money? If you must know, give heed now! It's like a lesson in arithmetic.

A ranchman sold a steer for $19.25. When killed and cut up the edible parts of the steer brought $99.21 at retail. The producer received $19.25 and the consumer paid $99.21. Somewhere between the two $79.96 of the consumer's money disappeared. Who got it?

The chuck of the steer alone brought within 75 cents of the price that the ranchman received for the whole steer. The loin at retail prices would almost pay for it and the flank would more than pay for it.

Nor is that all, for the packer, in addition to what he sold to this retailer, disposed of the uneatable portions of the carcass for $19.50, or 25 cents more than he paid for the steer. He had paid for the steer, therefore, before he sold a pound of meat, and the grand total received for the animal, quoting the retailer's prices for so much of it as passed through the retailer's hands, was $118.71, or $99.46 more than the ranchman received.

Somewhere between the producer and the ultimate purchase practically $100 disappeared. That would seem to give color to the stories of the exorbitant profits of the middlemen. It is what some of us have surmised all along—that most of our money is side-tracked on its way to the producer. That's all right, of course, if the men who get it render adequate and necessary service. That point may be passed over now, however, the idea being first to see where the money goes. The packers are not given to unnecessary handling, but there may be some along the road somewhere.

This particular steer was followed from the field almost to the table by a writer for the Country Gentleman, and the figures assume especial importance because Armour & Co. put the stamp of their approval on them and declare them to be correct. They come, therefore, as official—as the Armour explanation of where the money goes in the matter of beef.

They not only follow the steer from the field to the consumer, but they also follow the consumer's money from his pocket back to the farmer, showing just what is abstracted along the line and for what reason.

The consumer, speaking collectively, for many consumers were involved in this transaction, paid the retailer $99.21 for the meat from this steer. The retailer paid $72.93 for the same meat, buying direct from the packer and thus cutting off any intermediary profits. There would seem to be an exorbitant profit of $26.28 right there, but the retailer charged up $20.73 against this as the cost of doing business, leaving a profit for himself of only $5.45. Moreover, he says this is no guess work, the percentage of cost of doing business having been carefully worked out, so that he knows exactly what to charge up for it. He says further that a trifle more than half of this cost of doing business—say about $11 in this case—is cost of delivery. There is something decidedly significant in that, in view of the frequent assertions that it is the service we require that is putting up the cost of living. The price of that service has to be added to the cost of the goods.

More than 50 per cent. of the cost of doing business charged up to the cost of delivery.

Of course it is not so great in some other lines of business, but perhaps we think the articles themselves have increased in value when it is only the added cost of the ever-increasing service that we demand.

However, $26.28 of the consumer's money lingers in the retailer's hands, and $72.93 of it goes to the packer. To this the packer adds $19.50 that he received for the by-products, making the total received by him $92.43. The steer cost him $85.55, being bought from a feeder—that is, a man who makes a business of fattening live stock for the market. There was, therefore, a difference of only $6.88 between the packer's buying price and his selling price, and of this $4.58 is charged up as the cost of buying, killing, marketing, etc., leaving his profit on the single steer only $2.30. Of course it is the magnitude of his operations that enables him to do this on so small a margin. Anyhow, a total of $6.88 of the consumer's money is left in the hands of the packer, which is probably very much less than he supposed the packer got.

The feeder is the next in line. He buys livestock from the ranchman, fattens it and sells it. He paid $19.25 for this steer and sold it for $85.55. There is an apparent profit of $66.30, which is a very tidy profit on a $19 investment, but the feeder says he does not get it. Far from it. He says the expense of fattening the steer comes to $52.50. The animal lives well in its last days, anyhow, for $37.50 is charged up against him for corn alone. Moreover, the feeder pays the expense of marketing him, which comes to $2.10, and leaves a profit of $11.70 to the feeder for his work in preparing the steer for his fate.

However, we are seeking to find where the money goes, and it is evident that $66.30 of the consumer's money in this case stays right with the feeder. The balance ($19.25) goes to the farmer.

The railroads? Oh, yes, they get some. They get $1.50 for taking this particular steer to market, and the commission man who sells it gets 50 cents. That is all charged up in the feeder's expense under the head of marketing.

The Prisoner Was "Drugged."

The following incident is related of a patrolman in a city in Northern Kentucky. The patrolman, recently appointed to the position, arrested a man on a charge of drunkenness one night. When placed in a cell the man seemed to be in a stupor and the jailer sent for a physician. The latter examined the prisoner and said to the jailer in a stern voice, "This man has been drugged." At this, the arresting officer turned pale and stammered, "Yes—yes—sir, I-I drugged him two blocks, sir, because he wouldn't walk."—[Covington Post.]

Somehow the drouth does not seem to affect the growth of weeds. Can anybody explain this?

At last account Mexico had not fully determined upon suicide—that is, war with the United States.

A motor periodical announces that "gasoline is going up." Yes, and in many instances some poor soul is going up with it.

The 16th of the present month is Mexico's Fourth of July, or national independence day. Let us hope that it will be a safe and sane sixteenth.

During the drouth many people have spoken about praying for rain who never seemed to think this act was necessary for the salvation of their own souls.

Frequently men are seen wearing slit trousers—that's no new thing. But usually the garments are not worn for style, nor are they always slit just in the leg.

Mr. Carnegie's world's peace palace erected at The Hague at a cost of $1,500,000 is completed and has just been dedicated. Wonder who's going to live in it?

This is a progressive age, but some people seem to have not gotten out of the habit of thinking that the postmaster is sometimes guilty of holding back mail that is due them.

The fact that a man named Hobbach is running for office in Henderson, leads the Hopkinsville Kentuckian to think that the gentleman should make his canvass in an automobile.

Caleb Powers has decided not to run for Congress again in the Eleventh District. This is said to be by agreement made with leaders of his party in his district last year, when such a determined fight was made against him by his own party brethren. There will be no objection from anywhere.

Speaking of vacations, Harry Thaw's little outing from Mattewan seems to have been quite a costly trip altogether. It is said that the expense of himself and the State of New York for just one week in Canada amounted to over $100,000. But of course all parties to the case could afford it.

"Quot homines tot sententiae," was the terse way in which the Romans expressed the fact that there are as many different opinions as there are men. The opinions of members of Congress on the tariff and the case of Thaw seem to have added immeasurably to this expression.

It seems that we were misinformed or some hitch has taken place to prevent the change in editorial management of the Hartford Republican, as we announced last week, when we said Mr. J. H. Thomas would take charge with the issue of last Friday. We got our information from a very reliable source, however, as Mr. Thomas himself told us.

It seems that one trouble with the road question in Kentucky is that some farmers whose land abuts a section of bad roads do not consider that it is a personal matter at all so far as their taking an active interest in it. They know the road is practically impassable at some seasons of the year, but they think the county ought to fix it for them. In other words, they are quite willing to "let George do it." Until we have a more co-operative and earnest effort, our roads are likely to remain just as they are.

CIVIL SERVICE FOR THE 4TH CLASS POSTMASTERS

Washington, Sept. 8.—An item of $39,000 in the deficiency bill reported by the House Appropriations Committee means that the civil service examinations for fourth-class postmasters under President Wilson's order of May 7 last will begin in Kentucky in November or early December. The civil service commission merely has been waiting to be certain that the money was forthcoming before completing plans for the examinations.

The examinations will be held all over the United States as fast as the commission can get the examiners into the field after the bill passes. Kentucky will be among the first States disposed of.

SELECTING A GOVERNOR—HIS AVAILABILITY, &C

When James B. McCreary was nominated for Governor it was not a tribute to his personal popularity, but a tribute to his availability. Thousands of Democrats supported him for the nomination, who would have personally preferred some other man, but the question was right up to the party, "Who can we elect, and not who do we want." As McCreary was elected to succeed a Republican Governor, who in a large measure was a failure, purely because the Democrats thought he was the strongest man in the State to run, how much more so will it be necessary to select the most available candidate the next time when the finances of the State are in a worse fix than the Republicans left them?

Hold your horses, you newspaper fellows; it is too soon to even talk about the Governor's race. Several important things are bound to happen in the next two years and if you want the next Governor to be a Democrat you had better be spending your gray matter in devising ways and means of getting the State out of debt and after that in seeing that we have a straight and decent primary for United States Senator and that the nominee is elected the following November. After that it will be time enough to think about—not who ought to be the next Governor, but who among all the Democrats can be elected.—[Elizabethtown News.]

DEMONSTRATION OF HOG CHOLERA SERUM

Arrangements have been made with the State Commissioner of Agriculture whereby the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station will give a practical demonstration in the method of administering hog cholera serum, at the State Fair. This demonstration will be given on Thursday, September 18, at 10 a. m., on the State Fair Grounds, and should prove of interest to all farmers and hog raisers in the State. In addition to the demonstration, practical talks will be given on hog cholera, its diagnosis and post mortem lessons, the care of sick and well hogs, the work of the hog cholera serum laboratory and State and Federal laws governing the quarantine and control of hog cholera, by Dr. Robert Graham, Dr. J. H. Kastle, Director of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Commissioner John W. Newman, and others. Altogether this meeting promises to be one of great interest to all farmers and hog raisers and should prove one of the most instructive and valuable features of the State Fair.

THE CROP OF TOBACCO THIS YEAR NOT SHORT

In General, As Compared With High Records Of Previous Years.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says: Although the tobacco crop of the United States will this year fall short of the production last year, there is no reason to believe that manufacturers of the weed are destined to face a tobacco famine before another crop can be grown. Official Government estimates of the tobacco crops of the country covering a period of 63 years indicate that the 1913 yield will not have been exceeded in that period more than three times. When it is considered that the 1912 planting was the largest ever recorded and that the yield of last year failed to establish a new record simply because the crop weighed out lighter than preceding crops, the outlook for the 1913 crop becomes more encouraging.

The estimated area planted to tobacco in the United States this year, according to the latest bulletins issued by the Department of Agriculture, is 1,144,350 acres. This is but 81,650 acres short of 1912, which it will be remembered was a record year, and a falling off of less than 7 per cent. Aside from 1912, the 1913 planting has been exceeded but twice previously, in 1909 and 1910. It is estimated, however, that the yield per acre this year will probably reach 809 pounds, as contrasted with 785.5 pounds in 1912. This will make possible a production this year of 926,000,000 pounds, which is 36,855,000 pounds short of the 1912 production, a falling off of less than 4 per cent. Aside from the 1912 crop, the 1913 production will probably be exceeded in the past 64 years but three times, the 1908, 1909 and 1910 yields being higher than the production estimated for this year.

Reports from practically every tobacco-growing section during the past week indicate that the crop has made wonderful strides, beneficial rains having fallen in places where the crop was threatened with destruction by the prolonged dry, hot weather. In the burley belt the improvement is said to be most pronounced, and it is freely predicted that the crop will, as a whole, come up to early expectations.

NEGROES MAY VOTE IN ALL SCHOOL ELECTIONS

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Sept. 6.—A decision of interest to the people of the entire State was made by Judge A. J. Kirk in the case of Ramsey vs. Eubanks over the office of School Trustee, the court holding that in elections for the office in question, colored voters may vote for Trustees for white school and vice versa. Heretofore it has been the rule that only white voters should vote for Trustees for white schools and colored voters for colored schools.

In the present instance Ramsey and Eubanks each received fifty-four white votes, while Eubanks received twenty-nine negro votes. Ramsey protested against the counting of the latter for Eubanks, and lost, as stated. It is understood that Attorney General Garnett and Superintendent of Public Instruction Hamlett took the same view of the matter as Judge Kirk, the latter holding that the act of 1908 made all male citizens eligible to vote in school elections.

As the result of Judge Kirk's decision it is likely that an effort will be made to restrict the right to vote in school elections so as to conform to the former customs.

The lawyers in the present case were H. R. Prewitt for Eubanks and John G. Winn, John A. Winn and Lewis Apperson for Ramsey.

OIL FIELD NEWS.

The well on the Bennett farm is reported about 2,100 feet deep and have just gone through the brown shale. It is estimated that oil will be struck at 2,300 feet. It is likewise reported that drilling will have to cease on the account of having no water.

The Walter Allen well is down about 1,100 feet with good showing for oil.

Henderson & Snyder, contractors, are reported as being down about 1,200 feet in the well on the Sul-lenger farm.

Martindale & Holloway are reported 300 feet down with the well on the Ambrose farm—Sarvice Hill. The well on the Duke farm being sunk by the Ohio Fuel Co. is reported about 1,300 feet.

The Grayson county well, three miles northeast of Olaton, being dug by Cray & Roney, is down about 300 feet.

At a meeting of the directors of the West Kentucky Oil Co. on second inst., Mr. Rowan Holbrook was chosen president of the company for the ensuing year. This is a good selection and we predict there will be "something doing" in the way of development in the oil field in the near future.

GREAT RELIGIOUS MEET AT BOWLING GREEN, KY.

The eighty-first annual convention of the Churches of Christ in Kentucky will be held in the First Christian Church at Bowling Green, September 22-25, 1913. The Convention church which was dedicated only a few months ago is a beautiful modern $35,000 plant. The program for the convention which has just been issued announces an opening session on Monday night the 22d with the convention sermon by Rev. R. N. Simpson, of Harrodsburg; the Christian Women's Board of Missions, the national missionary organization of the women of the church of which Mrs. Louise L. Campbell, of Lexington, is the secretary, will convene on Tuesday; the Kentucky Missionary Convention, H. W. Elliott, Sulphur, secretary, has its session Wednesday and Bible School Day will be Thursday, the 25th. On the program are the names of State and National leaders of the church. Rev. H. P. Welshimer, of Canton, Ohio, who superintends the largest Bible school in the world and whose church leads the Disciples of Christ in membership, will close the convention with an address Thursday night. An attendance of one thousand or more is expected, representatives coming from all Churches of Christ in Kentucky. For this convention the railroad rate will be one and one-half fare plus a quarter for the round trip from all points in Kentucky. Dates of sale September 22-25, good returning September 29.

TO SETTLE COUNTY SEAT DISPUTE IN MCCREARY

The long drawn out controversy over the county seat location of McCreary county will be settled at the regular election on November 4, and the respective aspirants for county-seat honors, Whitley City and Pine Knot, are beginning to line up forces for the election. From all indications the fight between these two villages will be more bitter than the election of two years ago, when Whitley City won out by a narrow margin.

Since the former election, when Whitley City was declared the winner and later lost out through an adverse court decision, nullifying the election, Pine Knot has been the temporary county seat, this selection being designated when the county was created. Reports from McCreary county state that the voters are pretty evenly divided over the selection of a permanent county seat.

The matter has been the subject of so much legal controversy that great interest is being taken in the final election.

Distressful Accident. At Reynolds Station, this county, yesterday morning about nine o'clock, Mr. Jesse Loyd, son of Mr. J. H. Loyd, shot and killed his wife. It seems that young Mr. Loyd was cleaning his shotgun at the time and either thinking it was unloaded or mistaking the danger of the operation, he allowed the barrel of the gun to point in the direction of his wife, who was sitting in the same room. In some manner one barrel of the gun exploded and the full contents entered the breast and head of his wife. She fell to the floor and expired in about five minutes. It was purely an accident and the young husband is frantic with grief. The couple have two little children.

GREEN RIVER DISTRICT UNION HOLDS MEETING

Preparing for the Pooling of the Ripening Tobacco Crop.

The Executive Board of the Green River District Union, A. S. of E., met in Owensboro on September 1. On account of sickness President Balmain was not present and Mr. B. C. Eaton, of McLean county, was chosen to preside over the meeting. The meeting was called for the purpose of arranging for the completion of pooling the 1913 crop of tobacco.

The following resolution was offered and was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we recommend that the Executive Boards in the several counties proceed at once to complete the pooling and be prepared to make full reports of all tobacco pooled to the regular quarterly convention, which will meet in Livermore on the first Thursday in October; provided, however, that in counties where the pledges are circulated through the local union (as in Hancock and Ohio counties) pooling shall be done in the regular way and attended to by the local union.

In view of the foregoing action of the district board, we would urge that all persons to whom pledges have been sent get busy and get the tobacco in your community pooled and turn the pledges into the county secretary of your county. If any pledges are wanted, they can be had by writing the district secretary, S. B. Robertson, at Calhoun.

Farmers, remember this is the age of co-operation, not for tobacco alone, but for every interest of the farmer, and the time is here that our Nation, State and even the small community is becoming interested in the solving of great co-operative propositions, so let's be in the front and do all that we can to aid in the great co-operative interests that must soon claim our attention both as to buying and selling.

B. C. EATON, Acting Pres.
S. B. ROBERTSON, Dis. Sec'y.

Released on Own Bond. The examining trial of Estill Winchel, aged 15, who shot and killed his father, James Winchel, aged 47, at their home at Narrows, this county, on the 28th ult., was held before Judge R. R. Wedding last Saturday.

After hearing the evidence and counsel pro and con, the defendant was held to answer to the next October grand jury. He was permitted to go under his own recognizance in the sum of $200, the evidence tending to show that he acted only in defense of his mother and self, in slaying his father. This is a deplorable case at best.

Berryman—Shultz. Mr. George R. Shultz, Beaver Dam, Route 1, and Miss Effie Berryman, Rochester, Ky., came to Hartford Tuesday, secured license and were married at the residence of Elder W. B. BASEBALL

At East End Park last Saturday afternoon, before a good-sized crowd, the Oil Magnates for the second time this season tried conclusions with the aggregation of ball players hailing from Livermore. The locals were back in their old-time form and administered to the visitors a much more decisive drubbing than in the former clash. The Livermore lineup presented some good material, ranking from the tried old-timer to the newly-discovered youthful phenom, but their prowess was all to no avail against the veteran athletes of Manager Casebier. Spalding and McDougle were on the points for Hartford, while Rice, Dosset and Cline toiled for the visitors. Spalding pitched a great game, especially when it is remembered that this is his first season as a slab artist. He let the Livermore sluggers down with a total of only four safe bingles to their credit. Taylor of Sulphur Springs and Withrow of Equality handled the indicator. The score follows.

Score.
Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9—R H E
Hartford 0 2 0 4 0 1 5 0 8—12 10 2
Livermore 0 1 0 0 1 0 1 0 0—3 4 2

The second game of the season between Hartford and Sulphur Springs was played at the latter place Sunday afternoon. Quite a number of local rooters were on hand to encourage the Magnates. The locals played in much better form than in the former engagement and took the Springs aggregation into camp with comparative ease. It was a pretty game up to the end of the seventh inning, but at that point the local bunch took a fancy to Midkiff's curves and hammered his offerings to all parts of the lot, winning in a gallop. The batteries were: Rickard and McDougle for the Magnates; Midkiff and E. Taylor for Sulphur Springs. Bowman, of Deaneville, was the official boss of the game. The score was:

Score.
Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9—T
Hartford 3 0 1 0 0 1 6 2 12—12
Sulphur Springs 0 0 1 6 0 2 0 0—9

Barnard—Allen. Mr. Dennie Allen, son of Mr. E. T. DEMAND OTHER POOLS JOIN NEW ASSOCIATION

Henderson Meeting Passes Resolutions—"Do Something Or Get Out."

Henderson, Ky., Sept. 6.—The delegates to the new Consolidated Tobacco Association passed resolutions to-night calling upon the officers of all tobacco associations to resign unless they were willing to get behind and boost the consolidated pool. This resolution was directed at the officers of the various smaller tobacco associations. The resolutions conclude as follows:

"And we hereby request all of the officers and officials of all the said organizations, societies and pools which represent in any way the handling of the English type of tobacco, to officially, publicly and privately indorse and advocate the above association, and upon their failure or refusal to do so, we hereby seriously and earnestly request them to tender their resignation as such official. This request is from no personal dislike, but because we do not feel inclined to longer pay salaries and expenses from the various treasuries in which we are financially interested to finance a rival campaign."

Charges that an attempt was being made to break up the consolidated pool were made by Bradley Wilson, of Madisonville. Wilson said that not only would money be spent to break up the big pool, but that already an attempt had been made to buy him off and he would produce the proof and the facts to a committee.

Henderson, Daviess, McLean, Ohio, Hopkins, Webster, Crittenden and Union counties were represented by delegates.

The delegates were in favor of merging all smaller pools into the one big pool. Pooling papers by the thousands will be printed and put into circulation.

A committee on organization will meet at Owensboro Friday to arrange for the incorporation of the new association.

Upon call of the counties the following delegates were enrolled:

Daviess county—G. R. Ruby, A. W. Aiken, E. H. Koonern, Ollie Baelden, J. W. Chapman, Hart Masters, R. M. Hagan, K. H. Queens, F. M. Warren, J. T. Jones.

COWBOY SWEETHEART OF OWENSBORO GIRL

Comes and Weds Her—She Visited His Arizona Ranch Just Year Ago.

The Owensboro Inquirer of last Wednesday says:

A wedding that will come as a surprise to her many friends is that of Miss Ethel N. Coffman, of this city, and Mr. Francis L. Kirby, of Klondike, Arizona, which took place in Evansville Tuesday afternoon.

Before her marriage, the bride was employed in Circuit Clerk Tandy L. Harl's office, but resigned her position some weeks ago. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Coffman, of 1134 Breckenridge street, and is a very popular and attractive young woman, with a large circle of friends. The groom is a Government forest ranger, and a very prosperous young man.

In giving an account of the wedding the Evansville Courier says:

Miss Ethel Coffman, aged 22, of Owensboro, Ky., one of Tuesday's brides, paid a visit a year ago to a ranch in Arizona. While there she had a longing to ride the horses and round up the cattle in true cowboy style. She found a willing teacher in the man who became her husband yesterday, Francis L. Kirby, aged 22, a Government forest ranger.

He taught her riding lessons well, but after her return home he could not forget the eyes that had looked down into his. A correspondence sprang up between the two. Leave of absence was granted Kirby a few days ago and he immediately made for the Pennyroyal region. He arrived in Owensboro Tuesday morning and the couple came on to Evansville without delay. They were married by Rev. William N. Dresel of the St. John's church at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The couple remained in the city overnight. They will return to Owensboro today and after a short visit there will go to Arizona to make their future home.

Strengthen Weak Kidneys.

Don't suffer longer with weak kidneys. You can get prompt relief by taking Electric Bitters, that wonderful remedy praised by women everywhere. Start with a bottle today, you will soon feel like a new woman with ambition to work, without fear of pain. Nothing better for indigestion or biliousness. Price, 50c, and $1.00 at James H. Williams. (Advertisement.)

PITIFUL PLIGHT OF A GIRL AND RELATIVES

Lillian Rogers and Caskey Hart, the two white women against whom charges of keeping an immoral resort were dismissed yesterday and they were re-arrested on charges of breach of the peace, were tried in county court this morning. The trial was held before a jury, and the verdict was a fine of $25 for each defendant.

Considerable sympathy was evidenced for Caskey Hart, who stated on the witness stand that she would not be fourteen years of age until next April, but that she had been married for two years or more. Asked why she didn't live with her husband she said she didn't care to. She also stated that she was supported by her grandfather and uncles and as long as this was the case she didn't propose to work. She denied any improper conduct. Lillian Rogers, her aunt, showed no feeling other than brazenness, as the evidence was given. Mrs. Orr, mother of Lillian Rogers and grandmother of Caskey Hart, is to be tried next Wednesday on a charge of running the house. [Hopkinsville New Era, August 27.]

Caskey Hart, the thirteen year old girl who was found guilty of a breach of the peace charge yesterday in County Court, was sent to her mother near Cerulean Springs yesterday afternoon. There was much sympathy shown for this girl and no one was disposed to be severe in punishing her. Judge Knight got into communication with her mother and upon the latter's agreement to take her home and surround her with wholesome conditions he turned the girl over to her. [New Era, Aug. 28.]

HER HUSBAND REGAINED, DOESN'T CARE FOR LOSS

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 5.—A tinge of dramatic coloring invested the proceedings of the State Prison Commission last night and this morning. The commissioners worked until after midnight reading the records in parole cases in preparation for passing on them to-day.

Before concluding they decided to free George Hill, sent up from Woodford county for killing John Coffey three years ago in a fight in which Coffey drew a knife and in the ensuing scuffle was killed with his own weapon. Before they reached their hotel, the fire bell rang and when they convened this morning they found the family of Hill awaiting them attired in clothing furnished them by their neighbors.

While the board was passing on Hill's case his family was burned out of house and home. They had come here to work in a shoe factory while he was in prison. When informed that her husband was to be set free at once Mrs. Hill exclaimed that the loss of her household effects gives her no concern now.

Can't Afford to Have Kidney Trouble.

No man with a family to support can afford to have kidney trouble, nor need he fear it with such a remedy at hand as Foley's Kidney Pills. You cannot take this honest, curative medicine into your system without good results following. It cleans out and builds up the kidneys, and makes them able to strain out of the blood the impurities that cause backache, weak back, sore, inactive kidneys and sleep-disturbing urinary troubles. DEATH CLOSES CAREER OF NOTORIOUS ROBBER

Milledgeville, Ga., Sept. 5.—Death has freed "Bill" Miner, notorious robber, jail-breaker and "gentleman of fortune," from his last prison term. His picturesque career, which included clashes with the law of more than a score of States and several Canadian provinces, ended last night at the Georgia State Prison farm, near here. He had been ill for several months from gastritis. He was 75 years old.

Miner's criminal career began nearly sixty years ago. He left his home in Jackson county, Ky., before he was 15 years of age and went West. He admitted numerous stagecoach robberies and train hold-ups, and was several times incarcerated for burglarizing banks. He operated throughout the West, worked north into Canada and then invaded the Eastern States. He escaped many times from jails and State prisons. Three years ago he was brought to the State Prison farm here for robbing a train near Lulu, Ga., and began a term of twenty years. He had since escaped and been recaptured twice.

Avoid the Bronchial Coughs of Early Fall.

The changeable weather of early fall brings on bronchitis and a hard cough that is wearing on the system, and seems to tear open the bronchial tubes and mucus lining of the throat. Use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound promptly, for it will soothe and heal the inflamed mucus lining, relieve the cough quickly, and help to expel the cold. It contains no opiates. Get the genuine in the yellow package, and refuse substitutes. Sold by all dealers. (Advertisement.)

An Unwelcome Guest.

A tourist who had been caught in a severe storm up in the Highlands congratulated himself, after finding a solitary cottage, on being asked to stay overnight.

After dining, while wearing a suit of the goldman's clothes till his own were dry, he met the mistress on the stairs with a broom in her hand and she, mistaking the stranger for her husband, gave him a thump on the head with the broom, remarking, "That's for askin' the man to stay a' night!"

Caution.

A boy who had been absent from school for several days returned with his throat carefully swathed and presented this note to his teacher.

"Please don't let my son learn any German to-day; his throat is so sore he can hardly speak English." [Everybody's Magazine.]

TEST CASE WILL COME OVER RECENT PARDON

Gov. Sulzer Frees Prisoner and His Right To Do So Is Questioned.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Announcement that Gov. Sulzer had pardoned Joseph G. Robin, who is serving a term in the New York penitentiary at Blackwell's Island for wrecking the Northern Bank and the Washington Savings Banks, of New York, has just been made at the executive chamber, although the pardon was granted last Saturday.

Simultaneously word came that Supreme Court Justice G. B. D. Hasbrouck issued a writ demanding the production of the prisoner before him at Kingston on Thursday. Both the friends and opponents of Gov. Sulzer regard this proceeding as a court test of the validity of the impeachment of the Governor in advance of the time set for the convening of the court of impeachment. It is known, however, that Judge D. Cady Herrick and others close to the Governor advised strongly against issuing the pardon. Acting Gov. Glynn refused to-night to comment on the circumstances.

In a statement explaining his reason for pardoning Robin, Gov. Sulzer points out that as Robin was never tried, the justice who sentenced him acted without hearing evidence. It is also claimed for Robin, he says, that in pleading guilty he did so with an understanding that no sentence would be imposed. He adds that many pleas for clemency have been made in Robin's behalf, while Frank Moss, Assistant District Attorney of New York county, rendered a written report, holding that Robin is innocent.

Robin was sentenced to a year's imprisonment last November, so that in the ordinary process his term would expire in about two months.

FUNNY MEN COMING.

Many Comic Sightings and Ludicrous Novelties For the Children.

This comedy section with the great Sun Brothers' Shows this season is an all-embracing feature. There is a score or more of funny men, that are notable for their novel ideas and entirely refined methods.

They are the leaders of their class, presenting new, original comic entrees, ludicrous situations, humorous climaxes and button bursting proclivities. Among the names of this bunch of fun makers will be found the great American clown, "Slivers" La Belle; the Yankee character actor, Charles LaBelle; James Duval, original arena "copper"; Rube Walters, funny ruralite; the Garcinetti Brothers, Italian comiques; Bob Rozelle, just plain clown; the Brown Brothers, English funny folks; Master Harrison, the "smallest clown alive"; Miss Gloria Dutton, original lady clown; Sam Jay Rice, Irish funster; Billy Hogan, the Hippodrome clown, and an assisting company of clever artists, forming in all an assemblage of famous clowns, all of infinite jest and merriment.

The Sun Brothers' performances for this, their twenty-second annual tour, is the very greatest ever handled by this well known firm of amusement managers.

The equestrians; the acrobats; the big Japanese troupe; the blue ribboned cake-walking and "turkey-trotting" horses; the sensational lady aerialists; the physical culture men and women; the marvelous trained elephants and lions; these are all classy features and seldom to be seen with an exhibition in this section.

The show is slated to pitch its tents at Hartford next Tuesday, Sept. 16.

VICTOR HUGO IN EXILE.

And the Attic Room in Which He Wrote His Masterpiece.

A graphic description of a visit to Victor Hugo in Guernsey and of his quaint home there is given by the late Sir William Butler in his autobiography:

"Of the many curious things to be seen in Hanteville house the master's sleeping room was the strangest. He had built it on the roof between two great blocks of chimneys. You ascended to his workshop bedroom by stairs which somewhat resembled a ladder. Quite half of the room was glass, and the view from it was magnificent. The isles of Jethou and Sark were in the middle distance, and beyond lay many a mile of the Norman coast. Alderney lay to the north, and beyond it one saw the glistening windows of the triple lighthouses of the Casquet rocks and still more to the right the high ridges overlooking Cherbourg. The bed was a small camp bedstead, with a table on one side of it and a small desk chest of drawers on the other, with pens, ink and paper always within reach.

"Near the bed stood a small stove, which he lighted himself every morning and on which he prepared his cafe au lait; then work began at the large table which stood in the glass alcove a few feet from the foot of the bed. This work went on till it was time to dress and descend to déjeuner in the room on the ground floor already described. As the sheets of writing paper were finished they were numbered and dropped on the floor, to be picked up, arranged and put away in the drawer desk at the end of the morning's labor. He called the writing table his 'carpenter's bench' and the leaves which fell from it his 'shavings'.

"It was at this table and in this airy attic that most of the great work of his later life was done. Here were written 'Les Misérables,' 'Les Travailleurs de la Mer' and many volumes of poetry."

PAID WITH A FLAG.

Rich Ducal Estates in England With a Curious Rental.

It is not generally known that on the anniversary of Waterloo each year—June 18, 1815, was the original day—the Duke of Wellington is required to present the sovereign with a new flag bearing the French colors as an acknowledgment that his grace holds the manor of Stratfieldsaye at the will and pleasure of the king, that estate having been presented to the Iron Duke as a national gift for his success over Napoleon at Waterloo.

The ceremony of the presentation of the flag is today much shorn of its ancient glory, for formerly the ruling duke used to bring the trophy himself on horseback and personally offered it to the monarch. Nowadays it is sent by deputy, however, and is then placed by some appointed equerry in the position assigned to it—namely, over the marble bust of the old Duke of Wellington that stands on its pedestal in the guardroom at Windsor castle. The flag which has rested there during the preceding year is then taken down and returned to the duke's messenger.

It is on the special condition of thus rendering this annual tribute of feudal service, as we may call it, that the reigning duke is allowed to retain the splendid estate already mentioned. If he omits to send the banner on the proper day he forfeits the right to the estates.

The same principle applies to the beautiful domains of Blenheim held by the Duke of Marlborough, who similarly has to send a new flag on each anniversary of the battle (Aug. 13, 1704). The banner is placed over the bust of the noted Duke of Marlborough, also in the guardroom at Windsor.—London Sphere.

PENSION FOR BURR

His Application Found in Musty Records.

Writing as Legible as If Only Month Old and Dated 1834. When the Revolutionary Veteran Was 78 Years Old.

Washington. — The application of Aaron Burr of revolutionary fame for a pension has been unearthed among the musty files of the pension bureau. Secretary Lane has dispatched it to the Smithsonian Institution, suggesting that place as the proper depository for such an interesting document. The application is in an excellent state of preservation.

The writing is as legible as if written a month ago, and the paper is still intact. The signature of the applicant is modestly placed in the lower right-hand corner and reads "A. Burr." There are four pages of the application, which is dated in 1834, and is closely written on both sides of legal size paper. Therein is set forth that Colonel Burr, the applicant, is seventy-eight years old, and that he enlisted in 1775 at the age of eighteen.

It is further recited that the applicant's first important expedition was with General Arnold on the campaign in Canada. At that time he was aid to General Montgomery, who was killed in the attack on Quebec. Young Burr's next assignment was as aid to General Arnold, who was in command of the invading army at that time. Later he was aid to General Putnam and "was present at the battles of Long Island and White Plains."

The papers also declare that Burr was made lieutenant colonel by General Washington; that his health became impaired and that he made several attempts to resign on that account, and his resignation was accepted conditionally and with protest by General Washington, but before it took effect Colonel Burr was persuaded to undertake the destruction of a British blockhouse on the Bronx river, which he accomplished most successfully, and was then persuaded to forego his intention to resign and continued in active service until 1781.

Among other papers in the file is a copy of a letter to Colonel Burr from George Washington, dated "Headquarters Frederick, 26 October, 1778." The substance of this letter is found in the following quotation:

"You in my opinion carry your ideas of delicacy too far, when you propose to drop your pay while the recovery of your health necessarily requires your absence from the service. It is not customary, and it would be unjust. You therefore have leave to retire until your health is so far re-established as to enable you to do your duty."

KILL 12,910,506 ANIMALS.

There were 12,910,506 animals slaughtered in the federally inspected establishments of Chicago under government inspection in 1912. These consisted of 1,664,613 cattle, 463,750 calves, 4,772,357 sheep, 15,273 goats and 5,994,513 hogs.

The total number of animals inspected in the 790 slaughtering and processing establishments under federal inspection in 226 cities and towns in 1912 was 57,628,491. This is an increase of nearly 5,000,000 over the figures for the fiscal year 1911.

Since 1911 the number of inspected establishments, including meat food factories, has increased from 919 to 940. Of the animals inspected in 1912 cattle numbered 7,245,585, calves, 2,277,954, sheep 14,979,351, goats 12,871 and hogs 33,052,727.

The total condemnations at the time of slaughter for disease or other cause numbered 232,687 whole carcasses and 494,328 parts of other carcasses, or a total of 727,015 condemnations. In addition, nearly 18,000,000 pounds of prepared meats and meat products were condemned on reinspection because they had become unwholesome subsequent to the first inspection.

Chicago, with 12,910,506 animals slaughtered under federal inspection by the department of agriculture, leads in numbers. The other principal points of federally inspected slaughter are in the following order: Kansas City, 5,646,161; South Omaha, 4,609,655; New York, 3,034,685; National stock yards (East St. Louis), 2,968,292; South St. Joseph, 2,671,443; Boston, 1,826,044; Indianapolis, 1,598,503; Sioux City, 1,520,607; Buffalo, 1,381,271.

FLIES COST $157,800,000 A YEAR.

Figured out in money, to say nothing of the loss in human life, the cost to the United States annually of supporting its fly population amounts to $157,800,000, say government experts, who have been making study of the results of the germ-spreading activities of those insects.

It is estimated that the fly is responsible for an expenditure of $50,000,000 for the handling of tuberculosis cases attributable to germs spread by the pests, while $70,000,000 represents the cost of typhoid fever cases originating in the same way.

As a carrier of intestinal fever and summer diseases, and a transporting agency of dysentery, the fly, scientists say, must be charged with an expenditure of $37,200,000 for the cure of these diseases.

Satisfactory results are reported in nearly every city where anti-fly campaigns are in progress. In Washington there has been a noticeable falling off in the size of the pest horde. Methods of fighting the fly which have been followed in the national capital this summer are indorsed in a bulletin just issued from the office of the state entomologist of Minnesota.

The local plan was inaugurated with a clean-up campaign. Since then the method has consisted principally of bringing to the attention of citizens, by means of educational posters, letters and newspaper articles, suggestions for fly eradication that have been tried out with success in various cities.

GENIUS OFTEN A MENACE.

Children of exceptional mental brilliancy are even greater dangers to society than those defective or abnormally stupid. This is the conclusion of Dr. Maximilian P. E. Groszmann of the United States bureau of education in a report made public the other day. The educational expert based his statement on the comprehensive study made in the schools of the United States.

"It is often the exceptionally bright child, or even the genius, whom we find on the wrong side," said Dr. Groszmann. "The stupid and weak-minded criminal is not so dangerous as the clever and intellectual criminal."

As a remedy for the uplift of misguided juveniles the scientist advocates united effort on the part of educators, medical men, social workers, charity organizations, welfare societies, juvenile courts and other agencies. He declares in his report that all of the separate organizations are doing commendable work in this connection, but that joint action is necessary. He also advocates the passage of legislation giving the community the right to direct the educational training of every child.

"WOODROW THE COOL."

These be warm days in Washington, both meteorologically and politically. President Wilson has been in the thick of both kinds of warmth. Yet close observers declare that he has not yet perspired;

Has not been seen to mop his brow; Has not wiped a collar; Has not used a fan; Has not complained of the heat; Has not once said: "Whew, but it's hot;"

Has not started the air cooling plant under the offices.

All this in spite of the fact that he is the hardest worked man in the United States.

Blighting summer heat has fallen on the white house, but he has resolved to stay "on the job" all summer, to carry out the administration's reform policies.

His bedroom and his office are only a hundred feet apart, so that he is obliged to steal the time if he gets away for a bit of exercise, yet, even at that, he has established a white house record.

He has not even taken off his vest. He turns on the electric fan in his office and goes on working and weighing 178 pounds without turning a hair.

And all perspiring Washington is wondering how he does it.

SCHOOL FOR CONGRESSMEN.

During the discussion of the tariff bill Representative J. Hampton Moore, a Pennsylvania Republican, delivered his "piece" in the shape of what he called a "tariff primer." He had the clerk read questions and he answered them, incidentally roasting the Underwood measure.

While "Hammy," as Mr. Moore is called by his intimates, was getting along swimmingly with his primer lesson, Congressman Lobeck of Nebraska did his best to make the scene as educational as possible. Mr. Lobeck raised his right hand and frantically waved it in circles.

"For what purpose does the gentleman from Nebraska rise?" asked the presiding officer.

"Please, teacher, may I go out?" was the response, while the house shook its sides laughing.

GODDESS GETS BATH.

The "Goddess of Freedom," the dame on top of the capitol, has received her triennial bath.

For the bathing and painting of the goddess and her approaches and foundations, congress appropriated $16,000. Charles MacNichol, who has twice before washed and painted the great metal figure on the capitol, had the job. It required 240,000 gallons of paint to give back to the goddess of freedom her original color. It took the time of many men several weeks to touch the lady up properly.

Easy Way to Kill Moles.

An excellent way to exterminate moles is as follows: Prepare a small can of calcium carbide, which can be purchased from an automobile or bicycle dealer, open the hole where the mole has been digging and place some of the carbide in it.

Pour two or three gallons of water into the hole and close up the opening. In about 15 or 20 minutes open the hole and immediately ignite the gas formed.

Be careful in lighting the gas. A gas lighter or a match placed in the end of a long stick should be used.

The gas will burn for a few seconds and then it will back-fire in the hole. There will be no more trouble from the mole.—Popular Mechanics.

Not to Be Surprised.

"Dibbs is what I would call a practical optimist."

"How is that?"

"He hopes for the best, but is prepared for the worst."

HALF HOLIDAY OLD

Ancient Workmen Never Labored Saturday Afternoons.

Medieval Man, Like Moslem of East, Took Bath in Order to Be Prepared for Worship on Sunday—Legalized in Some States.

The Saturday half holiday is customarily regarded as a modern innovation. Ask any old person and he will tell you that he can remember when all laborers worked on the seventh day of the week just as on every other day—from the blowing of the whistle at seven o'clock in the morning until six o'clock, or later, in the evening. The shortening of the regular working day to eight hours, with freedom on Saturday afternoon, is attributed to the work of the trades unions. While the latter body, in the last few decades, certainly has influenced public opinion and legislation in regard to a shorter working day, it did not propound a new idea, but rather revived the old laws of the fifteenth century.

In the early days of industrial history parliament and the kings, both in England and on the continent, took a very active part in regulating the working hours as well as the wages of their subjects. By doing this, it was believed the king could protect his own interests, in addition to those of the people against unscrupulous employers.

An English statute, made by Henry IV. in the early part of the fifteenth century, fixed the legal hours of the country laborers from five o'clock in the morning until seven o'clock in the evening, from March until September; but, from September until the following March they were only to work from "the springing of the day until the night of the same day." They were always to have half an hour for breakfast and an hour and a half for dinner, with the privilege of a nap, from May until August, and were to work on Saturdays only until noon. Trading in the shops on Sundays and holidays was forbidden.

In medieval times the Saturday half holiday seems to have been almost universal. "Every one must be pleased with his work," says a Kutenberg ordinance, "consequently no one must be overworked." Even Ferdinand I. (1458-94), one of the most ferocious kings who ever sat on the throne of the holy Roman empire, accepted this maxim and ruled that, in the imperial mines, the miners were to work only eight hours a day. The old law also explicitly stated that work after Saturday at noon was to be strictly prohibited and that "a pair of stocks be in every town" that employers who worked their people overtime might be thrust into them. There was a Saturday half holiday, however, it must not be thought that this afternoon was given for recreation. Indeed not—it was bathing time for the greater part of the community.

Most barbarians, judged by modern standards, were anything but cleanly in their personal habits. In England, France and Germany bathing was an almost unknown custom until after the crusades. The pilgrims from the east brought home with them ideas of the bath as help in the treatment of disease, and bathrooms were gradually introduced into the hospitals. From the hospitals the idea of bathing spread generally. People who had been treated there saw the value of keeping the body clean in order to resist disease.

By the fifteenth century there was scarcely a large city that did not possess well patronized public bathing establishments, although it was not until the seventeenth century that the Turkish bath was introduced, and not until the eighteenth century that sea bathing, so common among the American Indians, was tried experimentally.

Why Saturday was chosen as bathing time is not difficult to imagine. On Sunday everybody was compelled to go to church, whether he would or not. As the Moslem in the east bathed before entering the mosque, so did the medieval man before entering his church, only he must take his bath on Saturday afternoon in order to be clean the following day. There was even a distribution of bath money to the children whose parents were unable to pay for their baths.

With the introduction of machinery and the rise of a capitalistic class, the old common laws of the lands regarding labor came to be neglected. The craft guilds were abolished by law and their property confiscated. Combination of workmen in any form in England was prohibited until 1781, when it became legalized again. In England industrial conditions during the latter part of the eighteenth century became deplorable. Even the little children worked from five in the morning until nine at night. In these working days of 12, 15 and 18 hours, the Saturday half holiday was forgotten, only to be revived after many years had passed.

Certain states and cities have legislated in favor of a Saturday half holiday. This is true in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Tennessee, Virginia, in the city of New Orleans and in New Castle county, Delaware.

HOW TO BE GENTLE

Vulgar Familiarity Never in Good Form.

Old Englishman's Advice and Warning Against Calling Men and Women by Christian Names on Short Acquaintance.

When our forefathers spoke of a man's "address" they meant his whole social bearing. Nor was it by mere freak or accident of language that the word thus exchanged a narrower for a wider significance. A man's way of accosting a stranger, or even an acquaintance, or even a friend, reveals a good deal of his character and goes a long way toward distinguishing a gentleman from a boor. "Good manners are easy and free, but a 'free and easy' manner is an abomination. My attention," says a writer in the Manchester (England) Guardian, is invited to the subject by one of those young inquirers who writes as follows:

"I attached no particular importance to the questions until a few weeks ago. . . . And now I would ask what experience has taught you. Is one to call every Tom, Dick and Harry by his Christian name, or plain Brown, Jones and Robinson, prefixed with 'Mr.' according to age? Is one to call every Joan, Jane and Betsy by her Christian name, or merely Miss So-and-So?"

I must not indicate my correspondence by the name of the place in which he dwells, so for the nonce he shall be "Tom Fytton," named after a very attractive hero who suffered from rather similar embarrassments; and to my friend Tom I would at the outset impart a salutary warning which I received very early in life.

"When you once are on terms to call Christian names, you are on terms to quarrel." This somber truth, even if it stood alone, should be a deterrent from premature and needless intimacies. I fancy that Cowper, who had the double sensitiveness of the gentleman and the poet, must have been smarting from some experiences of this sort when he wrote his stanzas on Friendship:

The man who calls you Tom or Jack,
And proves by thumps upon your back
How he esteems your merit,
Is such a friend that one had need
Be very much his friend indeed,
To pardon or to bear it.

And the odd thing is that the men who are thus offensively friendly always seem to imagine that they are making themselves extremely pleasant; they are too blind to see the annoyance which they cause and too thick headed to feel that their clumsiness is resented. Warned by their example, let Tom Fytton confine himself to surnames until he is really sure of his ground; and then, when acquaintance has led to intimacy, he will find that the Christian name slips in as easily and inevitably into its place.

There is no greater error than to mistake vulgar familiarity for "gentlemanlike ease," but there is a familiarity which is not the least vulgar, and "gentlemanly" has no necessary connection with social rank. Some of the truest gentlemen I have ever known have been miners, and I have seen agricultural laborers whose manners no instruction could have mended.

Is Tom to call Joan, Jane and Betsy by their Christian names? No. I cannot say it too often or too plainly. To a man, every woman should be a divinity; and the slightest touch of familiarity or free and easiness is inconsistent with that reverence which should be his instinctive attitude. It is true that my favorite heroine, Die Vernon, encouraged Frank Osbaldiston to set convention at defiance. "Call me Tom Vernon, if you have a mind, but speak to me as you would a friend and companion." But then Die, with all her charms, was a bit of a holden, and had learnt her manners from her brutal cousins. Frank, who was a gentleman, as well as a good fellow, declined to take her at her word, and at their final parting (as it seemed) she was still to him "Miss Vernon."

If a forward or conceited youth presumes to be "free and easy" with what he will probably call a "girl," he is likely to receive a snub which will abide with him, to his great advantage, all his life long. So direct familiarity is difficult and dangerous and the bolder generally has sense enough to avoid it. But he compensates himself indirectly by speaking of girls, behind their backs, by their Christian names, though he knows full well that he dare not so call them to their faces. There he shows himself a coward as well as a cad, and Tom Fytton will perhaps find an opportunity of telling him so.

New Use for Old Chairs.

Do not throw away your old chairs. By cutting them down you can make them useful for the front steps. Take a saw and cut off the back legs entirely, and then measure the depth of the step and cut off the front legs so that they will just reach the next lower step. In this way the chairs will fit on the steps, and the fact that they have back rests makes it a pleasure to sit on the steps summer evenings.

Grief and Remorse.

"No," said the stage manager, "you are the heroine. You are supposed to suffer more than anybody else in the play. You must put yourself into a frame of mind which represents grief and remorse."

"I know," replied the leading woman. "I'll try to make myself believe I'm one of the people who paid two dollars to see this play."

We are trying to get our subscription list on a strictly cash-in-advance basis, so as to avoid trouble and misunderstanding. We do not want to force the paper upon anybody against their will, but we want all that is due us. Please give this matter your very prompt attention. Look at that little yellow slip containing your name. It will tell you just what you need to know, without any explanation from us. If it is wrong in any way, let us know. Anyhow, please pay us what is due. It takes much money to run a good newspaper nowadays, hence we must keep our subscription accounts collected up. Either come to The Herald office and pay the arrears and a year in advance, or, if you are not coming to town soon, send us a check or post-office money-order for the amount due. We will appreciate it and it will make us think you really want the paper.

NEWBORN BABES WERE EXCHANGED BY NURSE

And Poor Woman's Child Given To Rich Mother—Secret At Last Revealed.

Bridgeton, N. J., Sept. 6.—After four years' mourning for her last born babe, whom she believed she had buried in infancy, Mrs. Beatrice Gaddis, of this city, a young widow, has learned that her child is living and well, cared for in a family of wealth in Philadelphia.

In 1909 Mrs. Gaddis was living in Mauch Chunk when her husband was killed in a coal-mine explosion. Shortly after that she became a mother.

About the same time there was another mother in the hospital and a few hours after the birth of this woman's child, the little one died. The hospital nurse in charge of the two cases realized that Mrs. Gaddis was a poor widow with four other children, while the other mother was wealthy, of excellent family, and that her child was her first born.

The nurse exchanged babies, giving Mrs. Gaddis the body of the other mother's child and giving the live baby of Mrs. Gaddis to the wealthy woman.

A few days ago Mrs. Gaddis received word from the nurse, still in Mauch Chunk, to come there instantly. She went and found the nurse upon her deathbed. There also was the other woman. The nurse told the story, and for the first time the two mothers knew the truth.

The nurse begged forgiveness before she died, and this was granted by the women. Then the mother who had possession of the Gaddis child appealed to Mrs. Gaddis for the custody of the little girl that had been brought up in her home as her own. Mrs. Gaddis yielded to the entreaties and took legal steps to permit her child to be adopted into the home in which she had been brought up.

TIVERTON "METEOR" WAS A HOME-GROWN PRODUCT

Tiverton, R. I., Sept. 8.—The Tiverton meteor of August 27 was today removed from the realm of natural phenomena by two young men who confessed to the police that the supposed celestial visitor was composed of sixty pounds of dynamite and a quantity of copper slag.

The "meteor," which was reported to have fallen in the Seacoast river, was accompanied by a blinding light and a deafening crash. Two fishermen later found in their nets a heavy piece of metal, which was declared to be the fallen "meteor." The fishermen put their find on exhibition and did a profitable business until a Brown University geologist pronounced the "meteor" to be nothing but copper slag, which was to be found in quantities near a local manufacturing plant.

The police closed the exhibition and began an investigation which resulted in the confession of two young men that with some companions they had taken the dynamite and exploded it behind Gould's Island in order to cause a sensation in the town.

BEAVER DAM.

Sept. 8.—Mrs. Annie, wife of Mr. C. P. Austin, who had spent two years in a sanitarium at Asheville, N. C., in search of a cure for that most dreaded of diseases, tuberculosis, came home to her family and last Wednesday morning at 6:30, surrounded by her family and friends, death relieved her of her suffering. She leaves a husband and three little girls, the eldest being 14 years old. She was a member of the Christian church. Funeral services were conducted at the home Thursday morning by Rev. W. B. Wright, after which the remains were interred in Sunnyside cemetery.

Beaver Dam school was organized for the fall term the first of the month with an enrollment of 200 scholars under the superintendency of Prof. J. Logan Stillwell. Twenty scholars under the superintendency out of town. From the interest manifested by the patrons and the methods of our new corps of teachers, we will have another interesting term.

Messrs. Warren Taylor and Quiggen shipped a carload of cattle from this place last Saturday, paying 4 and 4½¢ per pound for dry cows.

SCHOOL PROGRESS IN KENTUCKY RECENTLY

Gratifying school progress in Kentucky is indicated by some figures compiled by the department of education in which comparisons are made between the scholastic years of 1909-10 and 1911-12.

The school census of 1909-10 showed a total of 528,012 children between the ages of six and twenty years. The enumeration of 1911-12 gave a total of 527,336. This is a slight decrease, but it may be attributed to the strict measures adopted to prevent census padding, duplications and other inaccuracies. On this account the enumeration is probably the most accurate that has been made for many years.

In spite of the decline in the reported number of children of school age there was remarkable increase in enrollment and also in the average daily attendance. In 1909-10 the enrollment was 385,415. The next school year it increased to 413,094, while the average daily attendance went from 155,323 in 1909-10 to 229,631 in 1911-12. The percentage of attendance almost doubled in 1911-12, being 43.55, compared with 29.41 in 1909-10.

The number of children not enrolled in 1909-10 was 142,597. In 1911-12 this number had decreased to 114,242. The good showing is further borne out by the statement of the average number of pupils to the teacher. In 1909-10 the ratio was 18.45 and 1911-12 it was 27.31.

Better attendance betokens augmenting interest in education and in school advancement. There are many signs of progress in educational matters, but none so cheering as these figures of increased enrollment and attendance.—[Louisville Courier-Journal.]

A GOOD CRY WAS TAKEN BY THE WOMEN JURORS

After Rendering Verdict and They Induced Court To Remit Costs.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Twelve Oak Park women, constituting the first full woman jury ever impaneled in Illinois to hear a misdemeanor case, today proved themselves first jurors and then women and mothers.

They carried out the letter of the law as they saw it. They returned verdicts of guilty in two cases and assessed fines, and then—after it was all over—they had a good cry, declared they didn't mean to do it and induced the Court to remit the costs.

It was a confusion of smiles and tears in the courtroom after the verdicts had been read. The woman defendant and her four children claimed the tenderness of the jurors, and one by one they filed up to her, put their arms around her neck and told her they were sorry.

The case resulted from a neighborhood row. It began with a fight between the children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward O'Day, of 425 North Maple avenue, and those of their former friends, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Orth, next door.

A Mrs. Metz, of 429 North Maple avenue, who is declared by Orth to have been the original cause of the trouble, was the innocent cause of the dispute reaching Court.

Orth, according to the complaint sworn out by O'Day, called Mrs. Metz a bad name. His wife again, according to the complaint of O'Day, is alleged to have shown her contempt for Mrs. O'Day and Mrs. Metz in a forceful manner.

Mr. Orth, who is an ice man, was fined $1. His wife was fined $5. These are the lowest fines possible for the offenses under the Oak Park statutes.

Price, 25 cents. For sale by all dealers. (Advertisement.)

HOPEWELL.

Sept. 8.—Mr. Walter Sneddon, after being sick four months of typhoid fever, died last Saturday night at 8 o'clock at the old home place where he was born and reared. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. D. Montgomery. He was born January 4, 1885. He professed religion July 29, 1900, at Rockport, joined the Cumberland church there and lived a consistent Christian until death. He was loved by all who knew him.

Mrs. Mary Smith, wife of Uncle Press Smith, died last Thursday and was buried at the Yancey burying ground. She was born in Ohio county, near Walton's Creek church, in February, 1826. She joined the church there when about 20 years old and married Uncle Press about the year 1847. After moving to Muhlenberg county she joined the Baptist church at Paradise and lived a consistent Christian until death.

Elephants With Human Sense.

One of the big events in the Sun Brothers performances this season, is the Superbly Trained Animal Ensemble. It is claimed for this section of the show, to be the surprise and wonder of all beholders. Here will be found Horses that are clowns, acrobats, musicians and dancers; Elephants, with the wits of human beings and with a sense of humor, these pachyderms are the sensation of every city and town visited, in fact they have appeared in all parts of Europe and the big cities of the United States, and forms in all the most picturesque, laughable, comical, astounding display of elephant sagacity ever conceived. There is also a bunch of wonderfully trained bears, baboons, mules, lions, camels and zebras, in fact more trained animals than ever before seen with one single show.

The Sun Brothers' Shows for this season also present many distinct European "thrillers" and novelties, including feats and features absolutely new to the American public and vastly superior to those of past seasons. The wild beast and animal display is a big affair and serves to exhibit a superb collection of the finest specimens from all parts of the jungles of Africa, India and Asia.

As usual and in vogue for nearly a quarter of a century with this show, the management is following its famous policy of allowing no gamblers, ticket scalpers, camp followers or immoral issues with the show at any time or place. Two complete performances will be given at Hartford, Ky., on Tuesday, September 16.
